and supporters around the importance of attendance and its role in academic achievement.

To support the goal of increased interest and engagement in school, MENTOR: The National Mentoring Partnership has worked with the campaign organizers to designate the week of September 14, 2015, as Mentoring Effect & Attendance Week.

MENTOR has released a promotional toolkit with mentoring-specific social media messages, graphics and more for all campaign convening partners, collaborating partners and supporters to help amplify our message that quality mentoring can be instrumental to attendance and academic success.

LinkedIn & MENTOR Mobilize Members to Mentor

LinkedIn, the world's largest professional network on the Internet, is leveraging its powerful social media platform and community to mobilize members to mentor. MENTOR: The National Mentoring Partnership is proud to join forces with LinkedIn on this initiative to elevate the impact of mentoring relationships and call on more adults to mentor. The Mentoring Partnership of Minnesota (MPM) is an affiliate Mentoring Partnership in MENTOR'S national network and proud to support this effort!

On a dedicated website - mentor.linkedin.com - LinkedIn will feature user stories that demonstrate the transformative potential of mentoring relationships both in the workplace and in communities between adults and young people. LinkedIn Influencers, a select group of leaders in business and industry who publish articles on the platform, will also focus their upcoming posts on the topic of mentoring.

Share your personal mentoring story on LinkedIn using #ThankYourMentor and share this effort with your own networks!
